

CONSULTING

Our production manager, Gary Moles, will be happy to come to your grove site and answer any questions you have regarding ground prep, planting and care of young nursery trees. If you are having problems in an area that Gary is not familiar with he can turn to our extensive resource library and other citrus specialists to help you find the answers you need.

Another service that Gary conducts for our company is a consultation to discuss future grove planning. With Gary's meeting he will provide you with one of our in house publications entitled "The Grower's Guidebook to Better Citrus." This informative binder contains detailed information on most varieties that are grown commercially in California. It also has planting and care advice as well as information on several common citrus pests. The only way to obtain this publication is with a visit from Gary to discuss your future citrus needs, so give him a call today to set up your appointment.
