

REFERENCE LIBRARY

Since Willits & Newcomb, Inc. was established in 1946, we have had the opportunity to collect many volumes of international citrus proceedings from various organizations. We also have a collection of industry magazines that contain many articles on everything citrus, from diseases and pests to varietal information.

We have housed this information so that we are able to research answers to our customers many questions on citrus. When we have exhausted our informational capabilities we can refer you to the actual researchers. We recommend you visit our "Useful Website" page for web connections to vitally important citrus information.

The following reference books are available at our nursery. If you are looking to build your own citrus reference library we recommend the following publications for a good start.
